Same Math, Different Judgment!

The noise you're hearing right now about the ₱125 million in 11 days isn't really about the money.

It's about who spent it.

Because if this were truly about numbers, then the conversation would look very different.

Under Ferdinand Marcos Jr., the Office of the President holds around ₱4 billion in confidential funds yearly.

Now break that down—simple arithmetic:
₱4,000,000,000 ÷ 365 = ₱10.96 million per day
₱10.96M × 11 days = ₱120.5 million

So let's put it side by side:
OVP (being attacked): ₱125M in 11 days
OP (barely questioned): ₱120M in 11 days (average)

Practically identical. Yet only one is being paraded as a national controversy. Why?

Because outrage today is no longer organic—it is manufactured, targeted, and politically convenient.

If ₱125 million shocks you, then ₱120 million should too. If one deserves investigation, then so does the other. If transparency is the standard, then apply it equally—or don't pretend to care at all.

HOW IRONIC

Confidential Funds?

In a moment of terror, a 15-year-old schoolboy emerged as a hero, saving hundreds of lives when violence struck Moscow. The day the Affordable Care Act passed was one of my proudest moments as president, because it meant that millions of Americans would have access to health care, some for the first time.

The ACA also prevented insurance companies from denying people with pre-existing conditions coverage, allowed young people under the age of 26 to remain on their parents' plan, expanded Medicaid, and so much more.

But the ACA was always meant to be a first step. We still have to do more to expand access and make health care more affordable for everyone.

Former French prime minister Lionel Jospin has died ages 88. The socialist was the father of the 35-hour work week and civil partnerships for gay couples, among other major social reforms. But he is also remembered for his loss in the first round of the 2002 presidential election against far-right leader Jean-Marie Le Pen.

Anong korapsyon po ba ang nasugpo ni Sara Duterte? Noong 2022, siya mismo ang nag-utos ng imbestigasyon sa umano’y overpriced at outdated na DepEd laptops at humiling pa ng COA fraud audit. Noong 2025, sinabi rin niya na ginamit ang DepEd confidential funds para mangalap ng ebidensya sa corruption probe, kabilang ang laptop anomaly na iniuugnay niya kay Zaldy Co at sa Sunwest. Pero kung ganoon, nasaan ang malinaw na findings, nasaan ang ebidensya na inilabas sa publiko, at nasaan ang kasong naisampa? Dahil sa dulo, madaling magsabing may iniimbestigahang anomaly; ibang usapan na kapag resulta, pananagutan, at aktuwal na kaso na ang hinihingi.
